MORE ABOUT GC Budget

asked what it was for. Noun replied that it is "understood" that Mayor Partney "intends to turn loose of your expense money" and that there might not be enough in the original contingent appropriation to pay them. Partney has been holding up aldermanic expense vouchers.

These items were placed in the budget without much discussion, but an attempt by Alderman Ford Johnson to replace the remaining seven special improvement projects in the appropriation again was defeated in a roll call vote.

Would Cost $69,300
Projects at issue involve appropriations of $69,300. The figure was $76,800 earlier last week, but was reduced when the $7500 item for East 25th street was included in the budget Saturday.

Noun Saturday urged the aldermen to go along with the budget as it stood after the $23,000 worth of items were added, pointing out that inclusion of the special improvements or any additional items "will put us in bankruptcy."

He told the aldermen that "this is one time when you should put aside your pettiness. If we don't pass this budget we are going to be the ones criticized. It is your responsibility. It also is the mayor's responsibility."

Immediately after Alderman Charles Moerlien moved to place the budget on first reading, Noun submitted an amendment calling for inclusion of the $69,300 in special improvements. "There are some aldermen here who still want these items in the budget so I am submitting them," he said.

Noun gives warning.
Noun warned that the special improvement items would put the city budget total beyond anticipated income for 1967-68.

With 11 council members present, the vote was six "yes," by Aldermen Dawes, Moerlien, Johnson, and Fry. The six votes were insufficient.

The subsequent vote on the motion to place the budget on first reading—without the special improvements—was seven "yes" votes in favor, with the "no" votes cast by Alderman motion.

MORE ABOUT Early Storms

crews were called out to work on trees and other isolated breaks in various parts of the area. Many isolated repair jobs became necessary when falling tree limbs broke feeder lines going into homes.

The Venice street department called out special crews shortly after the storm struck to clear away trees blown down at Bissell and Weaver streets, in the 1200 block of Market street, the 1200 block of Calhoun street and in the 200 block of Weber street.

Tree Hits Auto
The fallen tree at 1200 Market street fell across and damaged an auto owned by Alfred Crawford.

The one-inch rainfall this morning brought to 3.72 inches the total rainfall since Thursday, or 67 of an inch more than the total normal fall of 3.2 inches for July.

Rainfall gauges at the Chain of Rocks Canal, where Quad-City area records are maintained for the Corps of Army Engineers, showed a fall of a tenth of an inch Thursday, 27 of an inch Friday, 1.9 inches Saturday none on Sunday and one inch today.

Saturday's reading of 1.9 inches, largest recorded for any single day so far this year, included the downpour during the thunderstorm that hit early Friday afternoon.

Streets Flooded Friday
That storm, occurring during mid-day, flooded streets in many parts of this area and caused several traffic tieups until water drained off.

That storm, occurring during mid-day, flooded streets in many parts of this area and caused several traffic tieups until water drained off.

Thursday was four times more rainfall than the total recorded for all 19 previous days of the month. Until Thursday, only .38 of an inch had been recorded in July.

Total fall for the month consequently is 4.15 inches, or 35 of an inch above the 3.80-inch July normal.

Dallas, Moerlien, Bartosiek, Green, Fry, Robertson and Dawes. Favorable votes were by Noun, Rutledge, Johnson and Basarich.

Through With Mess
As City Clerk Homer Pendleton announced the vote, Noun threw his gavel on the desk, told the council that "I'm through with this whole budget mess. Five weeks of work and we're right back where we started."

He called for an adjournment motion.

Await Scroggins Ruling on Whether To Ban Landfills

The ban on Missouri trash voted last week by the Madison County Board of Supervisors may be enforced, Building Official Jack Clifford noted Friday in saying he is awaiting a legal opinion from State's Attorney Leon Scroggins.

The Chouteau township citizens' committee formed to fight unlimited dumping urged during the weekend that Scroggins rule favorably on the new law.

The committee stressed that Madison county officials' first allegiance should be to the best interests of the public in their home county.

Saying that an original landfill operation in Chouteau township was owned by residents of Ladue, Kirkwood and Creve Coeur, the committee asked why those St. Louis county communities cannot set up dumps to handle Missouri garbage and refuse. They said sections of Creve Coeur are similar to areas of Chouteau township.

May Incorporate

Unless Madison county takes a strict stand regarding landfill operations, the issue may prompt Mitchell area residents to incorporate as a city or village, the committee reported.

The municipality then would have regulatory power over its territory regardless of county board decisions affecting unincorporated areas.

Collinsville Supervisor Gilbert W. Killinger issued a statement today criticizing the state's attorney and building official for "dragging an odorous red herring from a garbage dump across the path of the county board members who are trying to protect the health of the county."

"Every member is aware that the ban on out-of-county refuse haulers may be questioned as to legality. We plainly asked that the landfill ordinance be amended as a step toward a court decision on the county's right to more forcefully protect citizens' health and welfare."

tary installation. Departing every 20 minutes, the parade will be headed about one block from the headquarters.

Visitors will travel through the heavy equipment assembly and storage areas, with a brief halt enroute to permit tour-goers an opportunity to view demonstrations of a massive launcher vehicle, the type now in use in Vietnam to extend pontoon bridges across streams, rivers and similar obstacles.

The arrival of the parade at the Depot grounds about 1 p.m. Aug. 1 will signal the unveiling of a commemorative plaque, to be presented by the Tri-Cities Chamber of Commerce to the Depot.

In addition to the many activities for the general public Aug. 1, other events will be staged for official visitors from sections of Illinois and Missouri. These include a formal luncheon at the Depot, D. C. and other parts of the country, commencing with a brunch at 10 a.m. at the Depot Officers Club.

A briefing by the Depot commander is scheduled in the Executive Conference Room at 2:30 p.m. At the same hour, approximately 120 staff visitors will gather for a "p.p. on Lmf" gathering in the Officers' Open Mess for a "ladies' tea," arranged by the Depot Officer and Civilian Wives Club.

TWO KINDS OF ARCH VIEWS were afforded Quad-Citians and others taking "first official rides" up the north leg of the Gateway Arch in St. Louis yesterday and today. Only a distant view of the Quad-City area was possible, but there was an excellent vantage point (above) for such structures as the circular stadium. The other photograph illustrates the "mini-splendored" vista in the observation room atop the arch. Factors are (A) present miniskirt styles, (B) the angle of the walls in the triangular arch and (C) the fact that visitors can look straight down to the bases of the arch 600 feet below by leaning over.

Safe Procedures Add to Swim Pool Enjoyment

Whether you now own a swimming pool or hope to build one some day—more and more families are taking the plunge—knowing the rules of swimming pool safety may make a vital difference to you and your family.

Safe swimming practices are important, but so is pool maintenance—adding the chemicals, cleaning the filters that keep the water clear and germ-free and repairing damaged equipment before it becomes hazardous.

The addition of one or two pool-side accessories may be necessary to protect your family's safety. These protective pointers will keep you—figuratively, at least—from getting in over your head.

1. Arrange for an adult to be present whenever children are in for a swim. In the case of neighborhood kids, make an informal rule that no small children will be allowed unless accompanied by an adult.

2. Be sure swimmers stay out of the pool for at least an hour after meals.

3. Have a life preserver handy in the pool for at least one tube is fine.

4. A high fence around the pool will protect wandering tots—and possibly save you from negligence charges. Keep the gate closed whenever the pool is not in use.

5. Electric lights in the pool area make night swimming safer and help prevent falls into the pool.

6. Filters should be run so that pool water is completely filtered every 18 to 24 hours.

7. Filters must be cleaned every three to 10 days. The interval between cleanings can be lengthened by proper care of pool: frequent vacuuming and skimming (either by hand or with automatic skimmer). Clogging of diatomite filter—the type used in most pools—can be prevented by proper pre-cleaning with diatomite filter aid.

8. Keep water well-chlorinated to fight the growth of algae and bacteria.

Annual Drainage

9. After the season, check valves, pipes and other equipment for damage that needs repairing. Moving parts should be oiled, and all exposed metal given a light coat of grease or oil to prevent rust. At least once a year, preferably in the spring,

9 to Attend Reunion of 'Iron Men of Metz'

Nine Quad-City men who were among the "Iron Men of Metz" are expected to attend the 18th Annual reunion of the 95th Infantry Division at the Chase-Park Plaza Hotel in St. Louis, Aug. 4-6.

The 95th Division fought against the German Army in World War II for 145 days, including a continuous period of 165 days from November 1944 to February 1945.

The division earned the title "Iron Men of Metz" for combat action with the Third U.S. Army against the fortress city of Metz, Alsace-Lorraine, France, a critical stronghold of the Germans. Three weeks after first being engaged against the city, the 95th Division crossed the Saar River into Germany.

Former 95th men living in this area include: Richard Martin, reunion chairman, 4065 Beckenridge lane; Jack Bagl, 216 East 21st street; Lawrence Davis, 2041 Rhodes street; Cecil Lawrence, 2042 Edwardville road; Herbert Lindner, 207 Rock road; Russell O'Neill, 2540 East 27th street; James Reynolds, 2712 Missouri avenue; Eugene Short, 2320 State street; and Paul Stoch, 9 DeVon Hill lane.

John Elmore, 77, Dies; Resident Here 60 Years

John "Jack" Elmore, 77, of 1708 Kirkpatrick Homes, a local resident 60 years, succumbed to a brief illness at 8:05 p.m. Friday at St. Elizabeth Hospital, where he had been a patient one week.

A veterans of world war I, Mr. Elmore was a native of Coffeen, Ill. Before retirement several years ago, he was employed as a truck helper at Union Star & Refining Co. He was a member of Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 1300 and Veterans of World I Barracks 34.

Filtration Advance At Madison Dow Plant

An explanation of the Dow Chemical Company's new filtration system here is featured in the current issue of the company-wide monthly magazine, Dow Metal Products News.

It is noted that a long and costly research program was started to solve a problem at the Madison rolling mill—finding a single oil-in-water emulsion that could serve as a lubricant-coolant for magnesium and aluminum alloys, which are rolled on the same mill.

A new system of chemical additives was developed and provided unexpected benefits that may have a revolutionary impact on the metal-working industry.

The process allows almost any emulsion to be filtered through diatomaceous earth and re-used indefinitely. This, it eliminates the necessity of dumping and replacing emulsions, and provides substantial cost savings as well as eliminating down-time in the rolling mill.

Folk Singers to Present Outdoor Concert Here Thursday

The sound of music will fill the evening air at Wilson Park Thursday.

The "Music Under the Stars" summer concert series sponsored by the Granite City park district and directed by Warren Simpkins has included a wide variety of musical styles this year.

Adding further to the variety will be the 8 p.m. program this Thursday, featuring The New Directions, the Candy-Geane Trio and Bob Phillips.

Phillips, a vocalist, will include old-style jazz songs as part of his presentation of folk selections.

The Candy-Geane Trio includes folk numbers in its repertoire.

The New Directions combine old and new folk tunes, interweaving them effectively, Simpkins reports.

"All of Thursday night's performers are experienced, skilled musicians," Simpkins commented in predicting an outstanding evening of entertainment.

He is hopeful of seeing a turnout of 500 to 1000 spectators.

New GI Bill Utilized By Over Half-Million

More than one-half million veterans entered training during the first year of the educational program under the 1966 G. I. Bill, William J. Driver, Administrator of Veterans Affairs, announced today.

The administrator predicted an even more successful program in fiscal year 1968, with well over 600,000 veterans expected to enter colleges and universities throughout the country.

The peak enrollment month during fiscal 1967 saw 223,000 students on campuses, and that figure is certain to be exceeded during the coming year, he said.

The average G.I. Bill student during fiscal 1967 was 28 years old, and 49% of the students had one or more dependents. Seventy-six percent of the veterans entered courses at the college level, compared to about 30% during the World War II G.I. Bill program and 50% when the Korean G.I. Bill was in effect.

Approximately 15% embarked on graduate studies. Statistics show that 90% of the veterans students had completed four years of high school.

For 35% of the students it was their first year of college, Driver said.

Wool Contest Offers Europe Trip to Winner

A flight to Dallas, Tex., and a tour of Southern Europe next summer will be the result of time spent at a sewing machine this summer by some Illinois Young ladies.

Preliminary events in the Illinois "Make It Yourself With Wool" contest for 1967 are not far away for Illinois sewers planning on constructing a wool garment for the annual competition.

The Illinois Farm Bureau Women's committee annually sponsors the state contest in cooperation with the American Wool Growers, and the Illinois Purebred Sheep Breeders Association. District contests in the woolen clothing construction and modeling competition will be held in October and November but entries can be made any time.

Mrs. Fred C. Francis, Wilmingon, state director of the contest, encourages young women to secure entry forms at their county Farm Bureau office and submit them soon.

"Many women will be doing their fall and winter sewing projects soon and they can plan their garments to qualify for the contest if they have their information about the contest, which is on the entry forms, before starting their sewing," Mrs. Francis said.

The Illinois winner will be selected Nov. 14 during the 1967 annual meeting of the Illinois Agricultural Association in Chicago. The winner will represent Illinois in national competition at Dallas in January. The national winner will receive an expense-paid trip to Rome, Athens, Madrid and the Greek Isles.

8000 Killed, 750,000 Hurt on Farms Yearly

Being kicked in the head by a male would be novel in today's farming as compared to 40 years ago, but to read of farmers being crushed to death by overturning tractors is not new today. J. J. Paterson, SUI farm safety specialist, points out.

This comment fits into the observance of National Farm Safety Week July 23-29. The fact that more than 8000 persons are killed and about 750,000 injured each year in farm accidents emphasizes that farming is a hazardous occupation and that every week calls for farm safety week water-tightness to reduce the toll, Paterson says.

Here are a few nutshell suggestions for things to do at this time:

1. Check the premises for danger spots and remove them, such as junk wire and iron, stray boards, brush, deep holes and dilapidated equipment. Neat and orderly farmsteads with everything in its proper place are safer. This should include checking the electric and heating systems for proper installation, use and maintenance. Keep ladders and buildings in good repair.
2. Properly store and use the poisonous chemicals that are becoming more common and popular in modern farming. Insecticides, weed killers and even fertilizers are a continual source of danger through improper handling.

Always use the materials as directed on the container labels, store in original containers in safe places away from children and animals, and dispose of empty containers properly.

3. Use farm machinery safely and sanely, even in the rush of summer field work. Keep the guards on moving parts, maintain the equipment in good working condition, always shut off the motors when making adjustments or cleaning the machines and beware of undue speed, turning too sharply or driving on steep slopes or near ditches. Do not try to do all the work in one day; avoid undue fatigue.
4. Practice all the rules of highway safety. Avoid using public roads as much as possible for moving machinery from place to place, but if it is necessary, do it during daylight hours and use red flags, flashing lights or reflective "slow moving vehicle" insignia to warn motorists.

Use care in entering public roads from farmstead driveways or fields, and signal well in advance the intention to turn off the highway.

Flowers Topic of Museum Friends

The Friends of the Museum held a quarterly meeting at the Madison County Museum in Edwardsville Thursday.

The new chairman, Mrs. Wilford Flagg, of Edwardsville, who was elected in May, presided. Mrs. Charles Tuxhorn of Edwardsville remains co-chairman and Mrs. Charles Kohl of Granite City is again secretary.

After a business session, Mrs. B. J. Isselhardt presented a program on "Dried Flower Arrangements."

Mrs. Isselhardt began with a description of methods employed from the early days of our country. There were two major ways of drying and preserving them: by hanging the flowers upside down in a dry room for a period of time, or pressing them between the pages of a heavy book, preferably a book with absorbent paper.

Many well-known roadside flowers were used as well as the varieties found in the old-fashioned gardens of then and now, she said.

Flowers were used in frames as permanent pictures for the decoration of homes in the early days. The speaker went on to describe methods of preserving flowers at the present time.

She had samples of various types of flowers which showed excellent preservation of color after several years. She also displayed arrangements made up in containers.

A pot luck luncheon of sandwiches, cakes and fruit punch was served after the program.

A. O. Smith Elects Stieber, 6 Others

The A. O. Smith Corp. board of directors last week elected seven new company vice-presidents, including David H. Stieber, assistant general manager of the Milwaukee-based firm's automotive division.

As a vice-president, Stieber will continue as the division's assistant general manager, a position to which he was recently appointed. He also has responsibility for A. O. Smith operations at Ionia, Mich., where the company has an automotive assembly and glass fiber reinforced plastics molding plant.

The other six new vice-presidents are John P. Diesel, Paul R. Ellis and Wallace T. Hallett, who become new officers, and Allan C. Crane, who continues as company controller, James N. Johnson, who remains secretary and general counsel, and Robert A. Rietz, who continues as treasurer and assistant secretary.

"These seven new company positions have been established in order that the titles of the individuals involved may be consistent with their present responsibilities and the scopes of their activities," L. B. Smith, company chairman and chief executive officer said, in announcing the appointments.

Stieber, who since December 1960 had been the automotive division's director of sales, engineering and quality control, continues to have responsibility for those functions as assistant general manager. He reports to James E. Borchert, A. O. Smith vice-president and automotive division general manager.

In addition to the Ionia facility, which has 965,000 square feet, the automotive division operates a 2,250,000-square-foot frame plant at Granite City. A. O. Smith is the automotive industry's largest and oldest manufacturer of passenger car and truck frames and structural components.

45 Youngsters Will Present Play Tonight

About 45 local youngsters will take part in tonight's performance of "Mary Poppins," a presentation of the Children's Theatre group sponsored by the Granite City park district. The show will be staged at 8:30 p.m. today near the 27th street entrance to Wilson Park.

Described as a fantasy-comedy, the movie version of "Mary Poppins" enjoyed widespread popularity with young and adult audiences alike. If box-office receipts are any indication, tonight's performance at Wilson Park is expected to attract a large number of viewers.

Portraying the lead role of Mary Poppins will be Debbie Smith, a Granite City high school sophomore, who also is serving as assistant director and choreographer for the show.

Other principal characters will be played by John Harzall as "Bernie," Janice Vaughn, "Jane," Leo Scroggins Jr., "Michael," Alan Pieper, "Mr. Banks," Jo Ann Albers, "Ellen," Kay Daniel, "Mrs. Brill," and Mary Ellen Briar, "Katie Nanna."

Director of the Children's Theatre is Alex Urban, a teacher at Signal Hill junior high school, Belleville. Practice sessions, spanning a six-week period, concluded last evening with a dress rehearsal at the outdoor theatre site.

In addition to the featured players, 30 young people will comprise the dancing and singing choruses. Upright, including three kindergarten-age youngsters who will characterize penguins in one sequence.

Tonight's production will follow the "off-Broadway" tradition, with a minimum amount of scenery and increased stage participation.

An unusual lighting effect will be used to spotlight the cast members, who have made their own costumes and most of the scenery.

Construction, Law Enforcement Courses Planned

College-level programs in highway and construction technology and in correction and law enforcement will begin this fall at Southern Illinois University's Vocational-Technical Institute, Carbondale.

University President Delyte W. Morris reported the new two-year programs were approved July 11 by the Illinois State Board of Higher Education.

Each is designed to fill trained manpower needs expressed by federal and state officials. Each will require courses in the university's General Studies curriculum as well as specialist study at the VTI campus.

The correction and law enforcement program was drawn up by Prof. Elmer H. Johnson of the university's center for the Study of Crime, Delinquency and Correction and is based on suggestions made by Dr. Morris and Myrl Alexander, director of the Federal Bureau of Prisons. Dr. Morris is a member of the Joint Commission on Correctional Manpower and Training. Alexander formerly headed the crime study center at SIU.

In drafting the program, SIU officials sought to establish ideal qualifications for junior officers in prison, probation and police work and then scheduled a sequence of college-level courses to equip young men and women with these qualifications.

Completion of the two-year program will lead to an Associate in Arts degree. First-year enrollment in the new program will be limited to 40 students.

Also to begin in September is the new two-year course termed Highway and Civil Technology. It is designed to train technicians, giving them a relatively wide background in engineering work.

Dean E. J. Simon, whose Division of Technical and Adult Education administers the Vocational-Technical Institute, said graduates of the highway and civil technology program will receive an Associate in Technology degree. They will be able to de-

Alton State Hospital To Observe 50th Year

Alton State Hospital will observe its 50th Anniversary on Aug. 13, with all former and retired employees being invited to attend the homecoming.

The celebration will begin at 1:30 p.m. on the grounds with a basket dinner. Also refreshments will be served by the hospital to all, and it is not imperative that everyone bring a picnic lunch.

Officially, the hospital was opened in 1917. Prior to that time, approximately 40 patients were moved to Alton from Anna State Hospital before any buildings were completed, and were housed in the superintendent's residence, which formerly was the Eben Rogers home.

The 50th anniversary program is an employee-focused event. Following the picnic, part of the program will be emceed by Don Lewis, Beetholite, a former employee, who will introduce former employees to reminisce on the "good old days."

The committee in charge of the program has requested that anyone with pictures which could be used in a display get in touch with the public information office. All material will be labeled and returned to the owners.

To date, several items have been received for this purpose, such as pictures of an old threshing machine used on the farm ground and a tapper for maple trees which supplied the hospital with syrup and sugar. Ben Frye, Route One, Alton, a former employee, will play and display a violin which a patient made for him in 1917.

Many items will be on display in the recreation hall that day, and tours of the wards will be available. Responses have been received from employees throughout the state and many out-of-state are also planning to attend.

Develop preliminary sketches, assist a resident engineer in detail design of roadways and structures, prepare working drawings, make routine calculations and materials tests, keep records and perform inspections.

Simon said it is estimated that the Illinois Division of Highways alone needs a minimum of 200 highway technicians annually.

Based on an expected population growth of 100 million persons in the United States by the year 2000, an estimated one million technicians will be needed for construction of 750,000 miles of streets and expressways, 400,000 school classrooms, 30 million private dwellings units, thousands of industrial and commercial structures, and countless miles of water and sewer systems, Simon said.

Street, Hydrant Decisions by GC Council Saturday

Prior to its budget discussion Saturday morning, the Granite City council took action on a variety of matters pending from its incomplete July 17 meeting.

Alderman Ford Johnson, chairman of the street committee, recommended the award of a contract to G. H. Sternberg Co. for street improvement work on Garfield, Cottage, Lindell and Clark avenues on a bid of $53,100.

Although Sternberg's bid was the lowest offer received, Alderman Walter Nann opposed awarding a contract to the firm because "I don't think it is right that a man who has been on this council and has an inside track should bid on such jobs until he has been off the council for at least a year."

Nann cast the only dissenting vote. Sternberg, former alderman and chairman of the street committee, did not seek re-election last April.

List MFT Work

On Johnson's urging, the council also voted to include improvement of Johnson road from Franklin avenue to Pontoon road in its list of motor fuel tax projects scheduled for the next year.

Improvement of 18th street from Niedringhaus avenue to the railroad tracks as an MFT project also was added to the list.

Alderman Edmund Bartosiak, chairman of the city hall committee, said he had two bids for repair of the air-conditioning system in the council room, which the council holds its meetings, but was hesitant to award a contract because the city has no budget.

At Nann's suggestion Bartosiak moved to award the contract to Authorized Refrigeration of East St. Louis, lowest of two bidders on an offer of $1294, contingent upon budget passage. The other bidder was Triangle Heating Co. Mitchell, which bid $1650 for repairs or from $4500 to $4800 for an entire new unit.

In a motion by Alderman Richard Fry, the council authorized the city attorney to bring in a resolution calling for installation of seven fire plugs at various locations along newly improved Nameoki road.

New hydrants will be located at Leonard, Wilson, Victory Drive, East 25th, Lincoln, Herbert and 27th street intersections. The council will go into regular session again tonight with the budget again scheduled as the principal issue. The council also may reconsider tonight its action last week rejecting a one-quarter cent increase in the sales tax.

No Plans to Curtail SIU Student Admission

Southern Illinois University has no plans for curtailing admission of qualified students for the coming fall quarter, Admissions Director Leslie J. Chamberlin said.

Chamberlin said SIU will continue to accept all qualified students as long as there is time for such students to register for classes and arrange housing. The fall quarter begins Sept. 19.

Prospective students who have not yet contacted the admissions office to initiate their applications should do so immediately, however.

No student is permitted to register for classes until he has been officially admitted to the university. Also, a complete high school transcript and scores on the American College Testing (ACT) test must be submitted.

All high school seniors planning to enter SIU this fall must take the American College Test (ACT). Applicants must have an official copy of the results on file with the Admissions Office before a certificate of admission can be issued.

SIU limits fall-quarter admission of new high school graduates to Illinois residents ranking in the upper half of their classes or scoring high on entrance examinations and out-of-state graduates in the top 40% of their classes.

2 Horses Shot, Killed Sunday Off Rock Road

Two valuable horses owned by Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Bergfield, 2201 Cleveland blvd., were shot and killed Sunday afternoon while they were pastured along Rock road.

One, an eight-year-old American saddle horse, was shot several times in the head and through the body. The other, a three-year-old Morgan mare, was shot on both sides of the body and died at 10 p.m. No estimate of the loss was made.

The shootings occurred between 12:30 and 2:30 p.m. by someone using a .22-caliber rifle or pistol. The Bergfield barn also was riddled.

Sheriff's deputies said at least 20 rounds were fired and that they found shells scattered along the ground.

No one was horseback riding in the area at the time. The shootings occurred in the area of the Trailriders Saddle club. Mrs. Bergfield said that any horseman could have been endangered by the shooting.

The sheriff's office reported that at around the same time, two youths in an auto shot at another motorist along Route 35, and that they may be the persons responsible for the killing of the horses.

Persons who may have seen anyone shooting along Rock road or on the highway Sunday afternoon are being asked to contact the sheriff's office in Edwardsville.

Benefit Boat Excursion From Venice Friday

Tickets are being sold by the St. Elizabeth Hospital Auxiliary for a chartered boat trip aboard the "Huck Finn" from 7 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. Friday, July 28.

Those making the trip will board at the Venice riverfront landing at 6:30 p.m. Friday. Cost is $3 a person, and refreshments can be purchased on the boat.

The "Huck Finn" will go upstream through the locks to the Chain of Rocks Canal and then will turn and go downstream to Jefferson Barracks before returning to Venice. A narrator will explain locations and points of interest.

In urging Quad-Cityans to "see this area's greatest natural attraction—the Mississippi River" aboard the Streckfus Steamers' newest vessel, the Hospital Auxiliary is endeavoring to raise funds to help meet its pledge toward the hospital expansion program.

Only 300 persons can be accommodated on the trip.

Tickets can be secured from members of the group by telephoning TR 6-2832, TR 7-1633, TR 7-6230, TR 7-8306 or the coffee shop at TR 6-2020.

Mrs. Fran Gruber and Mrs. Marie Zimmer, co-chairmen of the ways and means committee, said in a joint statement that "the boat will return early enough that children can be included. The landing at Venice is well lighted, and there is ample protected parking space."

"The Huck Finn is air-conditioned—heated, too, if needed. There are plenty of comfortable chairs with tables, wall-to-wall carpeting, enclosed decks, 19th century decor and 21st century convenience."

Duccini, 2604 East 27th street, was presented a citation at a party Friday by Col. Charles E. Hoskin III, depot commander.

The award said his "vast knowledge of the myriad regulation requirements of Civil Service and the Department of the Army was a constant reference source for supervisors and workers alike."

Duccini will be an employee relations representative in the Granite City ISES office beginning Aug. 7.

Scooter Theft Suspects
Waive Hearings Friday

Two persons charged with theft of an electric highway scooter from St. Elizabeth Hospital early Thursday waived preliminary hearings Friday afternoon and were bound over to the grand jury.

Bond was set at $5000 each by Magistrate Merlin Hiscott for Clara Lincoln, 37, and Gerald Chapman, 25, both of St. Louis. The woman posted bond and was released.

Vocational Training Helps Attract Industrial Growth

By MAXWELL W. FORBES

In the opinion of many, the acid test of the quality of vocational education is placement of students in the occupations for which they receive instruction.

This does not suggest that the students enter the work force as fully competent workers. Neither does it suggest that their preparations have been specifically for one of the many occupational specialties.

Most vocational programs in the high schools prepare students for the entry level of an occupation. Advance instruction, or upgrading of workers already employed, is normally a function of the adult or extension program.

The earnings of students before and after graduation are of increasing importance and interest.

A North Atlantic region study suggests that approximately seven out of ten student graduates available for employment actually enter an occupation for which they are trained. Other local studies indicate this relationship may be true for the nation as a whole.

Better Jobs, Fewer Jobless

Graduates entering the armed services instead of employment frequently receive preferred military ratings and assignment because of high school graduates generally.

Unemployment rates among vocational education graduates are significantly lower than among high school graduates generally.

These data relate only to students placed in the occupational area for which they were trained. When considered from the standpoint of total employment, results of the same survey indicated that in 1969 only 5% of graduates of trade and industrial programs were unemployed as compared with 15% of all high school students in the U. S. who graduated in the same year.

This fact becomes more significant when it is considered that the graduates were seeking jobs in 13 high-unemployment states which contain about half of all redevelopment areas in the country.

This would suggest that trade and industrial education offers concrete employment opportunities to those who choose not to follow the occupation for which they were trained.

Obtain Work Quickly

A study of 41 first-grade graduates from daytime trade preparatory programs in New York City in 1969 gave results similar

Willout Home After Long Hospital Stay

A former local resident, Owen Willout Jr., 34, Bellefontaine, Mo., who sustained extensive injuries Dec. 19 when his trailer-truck plummeted over a railroad viaduct on Interstate 446 near Eureka, Mo., was taken home Saturday by ambulance from Barnes Hospital, St. Louis, where he had been hospitalized since the accident.

Still encased in a cast extending from his upper chest area to the legs, he will be confined at his home at least two months. Friends may contact him at 10444 Gardo court, in Bellefontaine, Mo., or Mr. Owen Willout Sr. of Granite City.

Right-of-Way Charge

Deadline on Reporting Quarterly Withholding

Employers have an important tax deadline on Monday, July 31. This is the due date for reporting and paying withheld income and social security taxes for the calendar quarter ending June 30, 1967, according to Jay G. Philpott, district director of Internal Revenue for central and southern Illinois.

Employers who received a pre-addressed Form 941 should use this form to report their tax liability and should attach to the return the validated receipts previously received for the months of April and May.

Philpott pointed out that employers who made full and timely deposits in federal reserve banks or authorized commercial banks sufficient to pay their full tax liability for the quarter ending June 30, including those required to make semi-monthly deposits, have until Aug. 10 to file their returns.

"Employer's Tax Guide" (Publication No. 15), commonly called Circular E, which furnishes detailed information on this subject, may be obtained by sending a postcard to: District Director, Internal Revenue Service, Springfield, Ill. 62704.

Patrick Lee Dale, one-day-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Lee Dale, 4141 Illinois Route 111, passed away at 6:20 a.m. Friday at Christian Welfare Hospital, East St. Louis.

Besides his parents, he is survived by the maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Jakes, and paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William Sherman, all of Granite City.

Services were held Saturday afternoon at a Granite City funeral home, with burial at Calvary Cemetery, Edwardsville. An obituary notice is given elsewhere in this issue.

to those of the North Atlantic study. Of all graduates employed in the occupation for which they were trained or in a closely related occupation, 64% were employed in the industrial training program, over 84% were placed within a year after graduation.

A followup study of trade preparatory programs in 11 North Central states in 1948-1953 showed that graduates in the industrial training program had been trained five years earlier, 13% were employed in related trades and the others were in occupations not related to their training.

Those employed in trades related to their training received higher initial wages and received higher wages five years later than the others. Most employers considered the graduates, at average or above with respect to eight items included on a rating scale.

100% Placement

Several states reported that placement of graduates in technical programs were running close to 100%.

In states with economic planning, it was reported that industries were attracted to communities with vocational training facilities or which could supply workers trained in skills demanded by the industries.

New, Expanded Plants

In one state, unemployment declined steadily over a 12-month period and industrial development led to 10,000 new jobs as 30 new plants were opened and plant expansions occurred.

Mobility of the population is a factor to be considered in any vocational education planning effort. When possible, workers will move to areas where occupational training and employment opportunities exist.

Public vocational education

Public vocational education has greatly expanded in the past five years as a result of the Practical Nurse Amendment to the George-Barden Act. In many high schools, students are enrolled in a combined curriculum leading to both a high school diploma and a practical nursing certificate.

A 1956 study of Illinois high school graduates with training in vocational agriculture showed 48% of those graduating from 1942 to 1959 engaged in farming. About 20% of the farm operators had at least one high school course in agriculture; 30% had been enrolled in a course for farm veterans or for young or adult farmers.

In 1961, the first group of technicians graduated from the area vocational education programs authorized by Title Eight of the 1958 National Defense Education Act.

Of 7596 persons who had completed the program in the U. S., 15% continued their education in the armed forces. With 5572 graduates available for placement, 82.9% of these were placed in positions directly or indirectly related to the field for which they were trained; only 115 were reported as unemployed, and 465 were unaccounted for.

'Historic Progress' Being Made Against Ignorance, Unemployment

The nation has made larger gains against ignorance, unemployment and poverty over the past three years than during "any comparable period in history."

"That is the studied opinion of Secretary of Labor W. Wirtz in testimony on urban problems before the Senate Subcommittee on Executive Reorganization."

"It won't hurt or weaken us as a nation," Wirtz said, "to recognize the turn of a tide of battle we had let run against us for a century."

Secretary Wirtz, who also noted the unfinished tasks in the country's war against disadvantage, cited this national progress over the past three years:

Two million more people working and one million more in high school and college than the population increase of the past three years accounts for.

Several New Programs

Three million people have either received training or been helped to stay in school or get jobs under new education, poverty and manpower programs.

A total of one and a half million children has benefited from Head Start preschool training. One million boys and girls got jobs in each of the summer of 1965 and 1966 and another one million have jobs this summer under the Youth Opportunity Campaign.

Between 1½ and two million persons who are in school or training or at work today would be out of school and out of work if it hadn't been for recently-developed programs, in Wirtz' opinion.

The number of hard-core jobs (those out of work 15 weeks or more) has been sliced by more than half, from 1,322,000 in 1964 to 590,000 in 1967.

Secretary Wirtz added that, while the cost of fighting in Vietnam has been rising over the three or four years, this country has increased its federal appropriations and expenditures for human and urban redevelopment—especially those benefiting the disadvantaged, the poor—in infinitely large amounts and at a faster rate than ever before.

Education, Training

Federal funds for educational and training programs that benefit the poor, he said, increased from $300 million in 1963 to $2.5 billion in 1966 and to an estimated $3.1 billion in 1967. This represents a 10-fold rise over the past four years.

"Total federal expenditures for education, training, medical and health-related programs, along with programs assisting the poor," Wirtz noted, "have increased from $19.8 billion in 1963 to an estimated $31.5 billion in 1967." This, he added, is a 70% increase in four years.

But major problems, including high youth and minority-group unemployment, the gap between white and nonwhite earnings, and poor progress in winning promotions "continue to keep all who are decently concerned awake at night," he said.

"But we are tough-minded enough, fair-minded enough and level-headed enough to check the benchmarks of what we are doing done as well as the roadmap of our intention."

Stock Dividends Ease Retirement

stock do you anticipate will show the greatest growth in the next five years.

A. Before you go looking too hard for a growth industry, consider this for a moment:

"You aren't going to be investing in a total industry, but in one or two companies of an industry."

Therefore, I think your growth should be with growth companies, whether they are in a growth industry or not.

For instance, those who bought stock in Wolverine Shoe a few years back are very happy investors today. This is because they bought into what is supposedly a "sick" industry, the corporation itself has proved to be a very healthy and growing one and has yielded better results than have a lot of companies in growing industries.

Growth in a particular company is not necessarily guaranteed because it is part of a growth industry.

The soundest growth results from an aggressive management. A poorly managed company can have growth if it is lucky enough to be in a growing industry, but once problems develop it may show up very poorly.

There is this ever-present danger in investing in a growth industry: A lot of new, untried companies are drawn into it. When the saturation point is reached, there is likely to be a shake-out. Only the best-managed are likely to survive—and the best-managed may obscure poor management.

Have you a suggestion about investing? Mr. O'Hara, editor of the monthly publication, "Better Investing," and one of the nation's best-known financial writers, answered as many as possible in his column or by personal mail, but must limit questions to those of general interest. Correspondents will receive a free copy of "Better Investing." Write to T. O'Hara, National Association of Investment Clubs, Dept. 5, Box 1065, Detroit, Mich. 48231.

Growth Industries

Q. What industry or type of industry do you think will show the greatest growth in the next five years?

A. From the information you give me, I think you would be wise to reserve about $200 in a bank savings account and use the rest to invest in the stock market.

I suggest you divide the $200 investment about equally between a good major manufacturing company, an oil company and a utility.

It sounds to me as if you are in an excellent position to form an investment club. You could take part of the money you are now investing in government bonds and put it into an investment club, where you and a group of friends would learn more about the world of finance, and learn how to pick worthwhile investments in your own.

Battle of the Sexes Invading Men's Last Fortified Position

(Ridgfield, Conn. Press)

Men in this country have lately been witnessing a strange revolution in the female population. It perhaps began when women were allowed to vote, but more likely when they started donning slacks instead of skirts and dresses.

After the passage of the Civil Rights Act, which prohibited discrimination not only because of race and color but also because of sex, women began leaving behind the kitchen and the kiddo world of old-fashioned femininity.

The new woman appeared, seeking a new position in American society, with a chip on her shoulder and a determination to make her mark.

She was tired of being behind every successful man; she wanted to be beside or ahead of him.

She backed up by the federal government, when demanded "equal rights" in employment.

They wanted the chance at the high positions in management, in government and in all the places where the men had, for centuries, had control.

Witness the Twiggy-trend, the mod haircut, the flared jeans in masculine wearing apparel and the cigar ads in which a seemingly dainty female is envied because of a plastic-tipped stogie.

And now that women have the vote, the jobs and the appearance of men, they are waging a face-lashing battle for admission into the last bastion of masculinity, the "male world" where men can sit with other men and discuss matters of male importance, out of earshot of the "little women."

Last week, the Connecticut House passed a bill by a vote of 88 to 68 which would allow women to climb upon bar stools in the state.

The bill, which does not require that the women have a

Special Section Today Honors 25th Anniversary of Army Depot

The Granite City Army Depot in mid-summer 1967 has come a long way since being first planned in 1917 and created in 1942. Part of the U. S. Army Materiel Command for the past five years, the 977-acre base supplies and maintains stock valued at $999,000,000 and trains both active-duty soldiers and reservists, the latter numbering 3000 this year.

Utilizing 262 buildings, 23 miles of paved roads and 29 miles of railroads, the civilian work force of 1750 aids Col. Charles E. Hoskins III, commanding officer, and his staff in carrying out a variety of missions vital to the nation's defense. Valued at over $25 million, the military installation has a $12½ million annual payroll and its yearly purchasing exceeds $25 million.

But statistics alone can never tell the history of the Granite City Army Depot.

The skill and dedication of its people, their willingness to shoulder nearly impossible supply and repair tasks and get the job done quickly, constitutes a proud record. The spirit of cooperation and friendship that has developed between the base and the community that surrounds it is unique in the extent of its genuine warmth.

The Press-Record is happy to join in honoring the Depot on its 25th anniversary by publishing a special 12-page historical section with the regular issue today.

Many anniversary activities are planned within the next few days, culminating with an open house and a large parade on Tuesday, Aug. 1. We urge all Quad-Cityans to familiarize themselves with the quarter century of achievement, and to help make the Army Depot's 25th birthday party one of the best ever held anywhere.

Giving Parking Violators the Boot

The "boot" applied by Eugene, Ore., police to a wheel of each auto found in frequent violation of parking limits is proving effective in ending a general problem of respect for parking regulations. The metal attachment prevents a car from being driven, and a notice on the windshield explains that the motorist can have it removed by paying his tickets.

It seems unfortunate that such procedures are necessary, but the "boot" plan properly places the "shoe on the other foot," forcing parking violators share some of the inconvenience that they cause for others. We would not be surprised to see it adopted elsewhere.

Radioisotopes Bringing Excitement to Growing Number of Classrooms

(American Institute of Biological Sciences)

A new teaching tool is bringing excitement to high school classrooms.

Students who once sat apathetically through biology lectures have discovered that science is fun. And teachers have found that they no longer have trouble catching their students' interest.

Would-be dropouts are not only staying in school, these teachers report, but are actually improving their grades and making plans to further their education.

Atomic Age Offshoot

This new teaching tool is an offshoot of our atomic age.

Small quantities of radioisotopes are used in laboratory experiments to show how living organisms function. With these tracers, a student can see how material is carried through the stem and leaves of a plant and how it is diffused into the atmosphere.

Steel--The Spartans' Secret--Helped Them Dominate Ancient Greece

(The American Chemical Society)

The Spartans, renowned warriors of ancient Greece, owed their military superiority in part to a branch of chemistry called metallurgy.

The secret production of manganese steel, the toughest alloy known to man, gave the Spartans the jump on their enemies, enabling them to remain undefeated for 300 years, it was revealed.

The secret production of manganese steel, the toughest alloy known to man, gave the Spartans the jump on their enemies, enabling them to remain undefeated for 300 years, it was revealed.

The quality of the steel turned out by the Spartans was comparable to today's highest quality manganese steel.

The Spartan production sites were located in the rugged mountains of the Peloponnese, where the Spartans lived in a primitive, almost nomadic life.

The secret was so well kept that it wasn't until Roman times that another power had the secret, as it often has been in the past, killed.

Dr. Borst, a metallurgist, nuclear physicist and spectroscopist, has pursued his study of ancient Greece as a sideline.

His discovery that the Spartans were using manganese steel began with a myth from the famed Greek historian Herodotus, who described a smithy (a place for working metal) in the land of Tegea that contained a coffin and a skeleton.

According to the myth, the bones of a Spartan hero, who was killed in battle, were carried back to Sparta, where they were buried in a coffin and a skeleton.

Dr. Borst estimated that the Spartans first began the manufacture of manganese steel about 800 B.C. and used it in subsequent wars against the Persians and Athenians.

The Persians and Athenians used carbon steel, which was not as strong as the manganese steel that for some reason, whether

The New Rubes

(Covington, Tenn., Leader)

A stock item of American folklore concerns the old-time farmer, invariably designated as Rubes. When Rubes visited the big city the hayseed in his hair was a dead giveaway and he never left town without a gold brick in his carportbag, or a deed to the Brooklyn Bridge.

Today's counterpart of the legendary Rubes is more likely to be a government administrator, fresh off the campus. He may not have hayseed in his locks but one can spot traces of ivy leaves.

The only difference between this Rubes and his predecessor is that he bought all the gold bricks before he left the campus and proposes to peddle them under government auspices.

The academic Rubes who have been insisting that advertising promotes monopoly, is an economic waste and requires government controls should stop pontificating and read a book which has just been published. It's entitled "Advertising and Competition," and was written by a down-to-earth economist, Dr. Jules Backman.

Dr. Backman has brought together an impressive array of facts and figures to demolish some old myths being circulated in the Groves of Academe as immutable truths.

"The discovery of a new product or the improvement of an existing one," he wrote, "adds nothing to economic activity until markets are developed. Because management is fully aware of the availability of advertising and other marketing tools, it goes along with large investments in research and development."

The incentive to introduce these products is the profit to be derived from the development of mass markets. This is the job of advertising.

Other valuable things that have been made possible such things as color TV, stereo sound, permanent press fabrics and a few thousand other things. It has done this by assuring manufacturers they could recover, through advertising, the money invested in their research and development.

And this flood of new products, in turn, has meant new factories, new jobs, new industries. It's something the ivy-decked Rubes keep forgetting.

What manufacturer would spend millions to develop a new product if he then had to ask a Washington bureaucrat for permission to advertise it?

Generous Hospital Land Gift By Tri-City Grocery

The Tri-City Grocery Company is being both generous and far-sighted in offering 20 acres of land to an Edwardsville-Collinsville group for use in establishing a hospital.

Additional hospital facilities are needed in Madison county to help reduce existing overcrowding and to cope with population growth. And the gift represents a substantial contribution to the get the proposal off to a fast and sound start.

A committee to plan the next steps has been formed and will meet Aug. 1.

What are the first words of the articles most frequently received in the Press-Record office?

This is a sample news release. Retype it, double space, add local information to give the color and reader appeal. Don't fill in the blanks in typewriter, pencil or ink. Retype! Give each newspaper an original copy. No carbons. Don't forget to retype this new release.

Radioisotopes Bringing Excitement to Growing Number of Classrooms

Research is now going on at the Atomic Energy Commission's Brookhaven National Laboratory to increase research support from various sources, especially the National Institute of Health.

This new combination of sciences sheds new hope on many problems areas in medicine and biology.

Imaginative advances in computer technology may well aid physicians in diagnosis and treatment, especially for the cancer of the breast.

Stunning biogenetics or biophysical discoveries have helped make possible the use of the laser in surgery.

An effort will be made to develop other new surgical techniques, especially for the explanation of various organs in the body.

Although the number now in biomedical engineering is small, it is hoped that proposed training programs will provide the problems and to expand the research in this new field.

religious or superstitious, had been converted for the production of steel. In it, Dr. Borst found the upper half of a skeleton.

Chemical analysis of the slag, or waste, in the furnace disclosed a relatively high percentage of manganese.

Until then, Dr. Borst had been searching without trying to prove any theory in particular. It was the discovery of the high manganese content that enabled him to connect it with Spartan military successes.

Dr. Borst estimated that the Spartans first began the manufacture of manganese steel about 800 B.C. and used it in subsequent wars against the Persians and Athenians.

Most Governors Not Given True State 'Chief Executive' Powers

(Committee for Improvement of Management in Government)

Most of the three articles based on the report say that a study of government at various levels, sponsored by the Committee for Economic Development.

Although most governors have great influence as political leaders, few have constitutional powers or managerial tools commonly associated with the concept of "chief executive," according to the study.

To assist in the management of state affairs, the report prescribes a program for streamlining the administration of state governments, placing real authority in the governor's hands, and for developing qualified personnel.

In doing so, it urges the experimental use of appointive "general managers" responsible to the governor for day-to-day management and coordination in the executive branch.

Succession 'Gaps'

Many states have constitutional and legislative gaps regarding succession to the governorship in case of death and disability.

The report suggests that ambiguous regarding gubernatorial succession be clarified along lines now embodied in the 25th amendment to the United States Constitution.

Many of the changes necessary to correct structural deficiencies of state governments will require amendment or comprehensive revision of state constitutions, the report says.

But others can be accomplished at an early date through statutes, legislative resolutions, executive orders or simple initiation of better management practices.

For example, the statement makes the point that legislative organization and procedures are usually subject to internal control by the legislatures themselves.

Use of Advisory Groups

Governors can appoint advisory groups to study specific problems and to gain popular support for administrative reorganization.

State supreme court justices can collaborate with bar associations to undertake a thorough review of state court systems. Judicial support for state and local governments can be designed to foster major structural reforms and encourage coordination among all functions at each level of government.

Finally, every state agency can encourage a climate of "technical competence" upon determined insistence of the agency head and his immediate staff.

"Modernizing State Government" serves as a companion piece to the CED policy statements "Modernizing Local Government," published in July 1966, and "A Fiscal Program For A Balanced Federalism," published this year.

In an effort to raise funds to provide the members of Company D with a few of the comforts and luxuries not furnished by Uncle Sam, the boys of that company who have been stationed on duty at Venice for several months will stage a carnival at Fifth and Washington avenues near the Venice junction.

There will be a sham battle, boxing, dancing and a variety of other amusements. Admission to the grounds will be free.

The local Red Cross campaign will soon be in full swing now that the final work of organization has been completed. The local branch, which will be known as "The Tri-City chapter of the American Red Cross," has a staff of officers and a plan for the coming campaign for membership.

Crown Depot Anniversary Queen on July 31

Selection of the Granite City Army Depot's "Anniversary Queen," whose crowning will be among the highlights of the local military installation's 25th birthday celebration, is to be determined at a luncheon party Monday, July 31.

The full-scale anniversary observance is set for Tuesday, Aug. 1.

Col. Charles E. Hoskin III, Depot commanding officer, said today the name of the winning queen candidate will be announced at the July 31 luncheon in the Depot Officers Open Mess.

The noon event will honor the "Anniversary Queen," members of her court and key personnel from the Depot's eight directorates. Approximately 80 persons are expected to attend.

The eight young women competing for the anniversary queen title are employed at the Depot. Each was nominated as a candidate by fellow employees in their particular directorate. Six of the eight contestants reside in the Quad-Cities.

The titleholder, who will be chosen on the basis of personality, attractiveness and charm, will preside on the official "Queen and Court" float in the Aug. 1 Depot parade through the Quad-City area.

Vacations Can Be Fun --If Soundly Planned

The traditional summer vacation of the American family is highly recommended. The family needs to get away from customary home and office chores, forget day-to-day worries for a short time and generally get rejuvenated and ready to face another year.

Whether your vacation will be a short trip to a nearby lake, camping out in a national park, a plane trip abroad, or what have you, there are a few things to keep in mind that will help avoid having the holiday spoiled by illness.

Depending on where you're going, you may need some vaccination shots.

Tetanus, certainly, for anyone who expects to include some out-of-door activities. Typhoid, if your journey includes areas where the water supply is uncertain.

Smallpox, if you're planning to leave the United States to visit a foreign land. Ask your doctor about these, and possibly other, immunizations.

Don't Overeat

Remind yourself to use common sense about your vacation diet. Many a family trip has been spoiled by too many roadside hamburgers and soft drinks.

A sound rule while driving cross-country is to eat lightly. Be cautious about heavy, rich meals, particularly if you're not accustomed to such fare at home.

Know what sort of climate you will encounter at your vacation spot and dress accordingly. It can get cold in the mountains at night, even in midsummer.

Good walking shoes are important to the travel wardrobe. If you wear glasses, take along an extra pair, or at least a copy of your prescription.

If you're taking a regular medication, make certain of your supply before you leave.

Adequate Rest

And, finally, don't overdo it. Almost no one other than a trained athlete is ready for 36 holes of golf or five sets of tennis under a broiling sun.

Schedule your vacation to allow daily rest periods.

Do most of the driving in the morning hours and stop for the evening in early or mid-afternoon.

Your vacation should be a holiday for rest and relaxation. It should not be a grind that necessitates another vacation to rest up from the vacation.

Five Divorces Given To Quad-City Couples

Five divorce decrees were signed last week in Madison county circuit court at Edwardsville for five area couples. They were granted to:

Beverly North from Robert S. North, both of Granite City. They were married last Feb. 3 and separated on March 3. Cruelty was charged. Her former name of Beverly Doris Howard was restored.

Georgia R. Lowe of Madison from Robert S. Lowe of Queen Creek, Ariz. They were married Dec. 30, 1961, and separated June 15, 1964. Desertion was charged. Her former name of Georgia Schoonover was restored.

Nora Lewis of Granite City from Clarence Jones of Ingleswood, Calif. They were married March 10, 1959, at Pickett, Ark., and separated March 6, 1966. Desertion was charged. The mother received custody of eight children, and the matter of child support was reserved by the court.

Pearl L. Jelley of Granite City from Richard R. Jelley. They were married Oct. 24, 1959. Desertion was charged.

$20,000 Suit Filed By Venice Woman

A $20,000 damage suit was filed last week for Laveta Wells of Venice against Robert Pennell in Madison county circuit court at Edwardsville.

According to the complaint, she was living in an apartment house owned by Pennell at 906-908 Third street, Venice, and on June 17 she tripped over a board which was placed over a defective portion of the rear porch. She fell, suffering allegedly permanent and severe injuries. Negligence was charged.

Hit-Run Accident On Route 203 Saturday

A car driven by Wendell Wilson, 101 Lee Wright Homes, Venice, was damaged in the left side at 12:05 a.m. Saturday when it struck by another car that fled the scene. The accident occurred at the Moto service station on Route 203 at the foot of the McCambridge avenue viaduct.

Wilson told Madison police that he was driving north on McCambridge when the other car careened out of the service station, collided with his car and then left.

“You say the time to install gas heat is NOW?”

Yes, now. In July. Because next winter when your old furnace gives out, you'll probably decide to replace it with a modern gas furnace. But when the family's shivering, there's no time for estimates or comparisons of various makes. And your heating contractor is in a bind, too, with shivering homeowners calling with the same problem you have.

So have the job done now . . . while you have time to shop around. Then when the snow flies, you'll be sitting pretty with clean, steady, economical gas heat, the last word in home comfort.

IN Memoriam 33
 In loving memory of AUBREY L. ROHLFING, July 24, 1906: We often sit and think of him when we are all here. For memory is the only friend that grief can call its own. A part of him we carry with us, when all other things decay. Our love for him will still keep green and never fade away. WIFE and CHILDREN 32-724
